HONGKONG OFFICE: 14, DES VŒUX ROAD CH.
LONDON OFFICE: 131, FLEET STREET, E.C.

Hongkong, 12th August, 1903.

It is with much satisfaction we note the new departures inaugurated by the Superintendent of the Afforestation Department. Mr. Dunn has brought fresh ideas with him, and he is evidently anxious that the Public Gardens, of late years deserted by all but nurses and children, should arouse the interest and receive the attention of residents as well as of passing visitors. The Gardens are charmingly situated and being on the higher levels they command most pleasing views of the harbour and city. But the ordinary resident had long ceased to find much pleasure in them. The quietude and peace that should mark these retreats had ceased to exist. Dirty coolies with bare legs and feet tucked under them sat and smoked their noxious tobacco and indulged in the national habit unchecked and unrestrained, and unruly children contending with shrill-voiced amahs provided undesired animation on the lower terraces. The new Superintendent is going to remedy all this, or at any rate confine the more blatant nuisances within bounds: A set of regulations for the maintenance of good order and the preservation of property in the Public Gardens has been drawn up, and was reprinted from the Government Gazette in our columns on Monday. These provide for the preservation of the flowers and plants, the Kennedy statue, the greenhouses, cages, bandstand, etc.; also that persons frequenting the Gardens shall be properly clothed, shall not lie upon or put their feet on the seats, fly kites, carry loads, or use the Gardens as a thoroughfare. Dogs will only be allowed when on leash, and no public or private vehicles, except sedan chairs for the use of invalids, will be permitted in the Gardens. Power is also reserved to the Superintendent to close the Gardens or any portion thereof and grant admission thereto by ticket or otherwise on such occasions as may be approved by the Governor.

These regulations have, now the Colony has grown to its present proportions, become absolutely necessary if the Gardens are to be—as they were originally intended to be—the botanical centre of Hongkong, and a pleasant retreat from the noise and bustle of the traffic on the lower levels. We are glad, therefore, to see them inaugurated, and believe they will serve to render the Gardens more popular. Mr. Dunn is doing his best to stimulate interest in his department, and it is to be hoped that every encouragement will be given to him, by appreciation from the Government and the public, to continue his efforts to promote botanical knowledge and help to develop the natural resources of the Colony. There is a considerable field here for the botanist to explore, and we doubt not that, before long, Mr. Dunn will be able to make some discoveries of interest in the New Territory, if not on the island of Hongkong. In connection with his work, we trust the Government will see its way to increase the very slender vote hitherto accorded to the Afforestation Department. There is much to be done, both on this island and on the mainland, not only in the shape of afforestation but also in the way of forming nurseries, wherein experiment could be made with different products adapted to the soil and climate or that might be induced to thrive on the slopes. The Chinese would be only too willing to try new crops, no doubt, if it were demonstrated to them that they could succeed in raising them for the local market. The success that has attended the cultivation of the pineapple on the slopes of Timoshan is a case in point. The hills, too, require planting on a large scale, and their more effective conservation is most desirable, to which end the staff of forest rangers should be increased. Efforts should also be made to grapple with newly introduced parasites which threaten to overrun the entire island if left to riot uncontrolled. We refer more especially to the Mimosa sensitiva (sensitive plant), the Lantana, and the Agave, all of which are quite recent introductions, and are spreading in various parts in the rankest profusion, destroying the turf and choking garden beds. The first named is amazingly prolific, scatters its seeds far and near, and, contrary to all preconceived ideas, is very hardy and difficult of extermination. Mr. Dunn will, we trust, wage war against this intruder and check its progress, otherwise it will soon be almost impossible to preserve a piece of good green sward in the Colony. As we have already indicated, there is plenty of scope for the new Superintendent's energies, and if the Government will only increase the botanical vote, there is no doubt important developments in this direction will take place in the next few years.

According to a Peking message to the Manila Times it has been given out by one of the leading Viceroy's that an order for 23,000 rifles has been placed by the Chinese Government in Japan and one, for 48 field-pieces in Germany.

A telegram in a Manila paper says that 14,000 Russian troops were being rapidly mobilised at Port Arthur at the beginning of the month; also that Russia is to spend 63 millions of dollars in the erection of defensive forts for the harbour.

The Kobe police (says the local Chronicle) have got hold of a thief who probably holds the "bicycle record." His name is Sawa Kozuyuki, the son of well-to-do parents who live at Matsue, Shimane prefecture, and he is only twenty-four years of age, but he has stolen over two hundred bicycles from various shops where machines are let out on hire in different parts of the country. He is evidently a born thief, for when he was attending the Middle School he stole money and other articles belonging to his schoolfellows and was sent to prison for six months. That was about five years ago. Since then he has been convicted five times for theft.

More than 5,000 Chinese labourers have been shipped into Mexico lately. How many will steal through to the Panama Canal?

Harry C. Sprague, a well-known and popular newspaper man of Manila, has died from heart disease. He went to Manila from Shanghai in 1899.

Captain Collier of the Metropolitan Police Force at Manila, and a well known character of the city, committed suicide about a week ago by swallowing carbolic acid.

The English team of cricketers for Australia leave by the R.M.S. Orontes on the 23rd prox. The team will probably spend a week or a fortnight in West Australia.

The Lu-Han Railway has so far been laid to Choshan. Cars have been run on trial between Hankow and the present terminus so that regular passenger traffic might be soon inaugurated.

The Japan Herald understands that the purchase of the "Ban" line steamer Beacore by a Japanese firm is now under negotiation. The Beacore, of the same line, was recently sold to a Japanese coal-mERCHANT of Yokohama.

Australian papers publish the following telegram from London:—"The King has stated in reply to a correspondent that he considered that the least of his health was equally honoured by these drinking it in water as by those who drank it in wine."

The Shanghai "school question," which threatened at one time to become a rather bitter controversy, has been settled by an agreement that the matter of biblical teaching shall be shelved until the ratifiers have given their consent to its inclusion in the curriculum.

We have received a copy of Indian Opinion, a weekly paper published at Durban in English, Gujarati, Tamil, and Hindi, "in the interests of the Indians in South Africa." It makes a spirited appeal on behalf of the right of British Indians in that part of the world.

"Take off that hat," said Mr. T. S. S. Smith yesterday to a Japanese who strolled into Court with his head covered; "this is the second time in two days that I have had to speak to a Japanese on the same subject." The hat was doffed in a hurry and the offender was put outside.

The Noroo Vrengy modestly suggests that if Britain will abandon the idea of advancing the Indian frontier to the Sino-Arab, and of extending British influence in the Yangtze Valley, a complete Anglo-Russian rapprochement is possible. The price of Russia is certainly not dear!

The project to locate a colony of Japanese rice-farmers in Texas is stated to be progressing favourably. The leases of 1,000 acres of land have been signed and taken to New York by representatives of the landowners. They will be submitted to the Japanese Consul-General, Mr. Uchida, for approval and his signature, when Mr. K. Isomoto, the Japanese rice expert, who is now in Texas, will sign them and start at once for Japan to conduct his proposed colony to the United States.

The Jiji's representative in Peking learns that Russian non-combatants continue to come and reside in Manchuria. The families of Russian troops are also living there in great numbers. Russia's colonial policy seems to be gradually achieving success. The Russian order against the export of grain from Newchwang came in force on the 22nd ult. The principal cereals arriving at that port usually come from the south, though there may be some products from Manchuria. It is said that Russia enforced the new measure without any design against Japan, but merely to sustain China's protest and in deference to complaint on the part of poor natives regarding the upward tendency of the price of cereals.

The British and colonial competitors in the Palma trophy, won by the United States team, were handicapped, it is said, owing to the aperture sight on the American rifles being most useful in the garish light which prevailed. The Australian team considered that the War Office should recognise the superiority of the American sight. Arrangements are progressing with a view to sending a team of Australian riflemen to America to compete for the Palma trophy towards the end of August, 1904. It is estimated that £1,500 would cover the actual outfit, and £2,000 would enable the team to also visit Biele, earlier in the same year. A sum of £500 has been generously offered by an anonymous donor towards a fund for defraying the expenses of such an expedition.

The following despatch is dated New York, July 7:—Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador to the United States, thought he was being pursued by anarchists to-day just before he sailed for home on the Kroprinz Wilhelm. He was taking luncheon at a hotel in Hoboken, when a mob of 500 longshoremen surrounded the hotel and rushed through the building in search of a man who had stabbed one of their number. The Count made haste to leave the table at which he had been seated, and asked the hotel employees to take him to a secluded place where he would be safe. He said he was sure the mob was a party of anarchists who were after him. He appeared to be very much agitated and decidedly nervous over the situation. The trouble that agitated Count Cassini was a race riot, combined with attempted lynching. There had been a free fight between Italian and German longshoremen, and one Italian stabbed a German, and he took refuge in the hotel from the mob of Germans who threatened to lynch him. The Italian was finally taken to the police station, and the Ambassador was reassured.

Orders have been issued to repair the Yu Hua Tai forts at Nanking, which are the celebrated forts held so successfully by the Taiping rebels, which have gradually fallen into disrepair.

The Japanese training fleet under the command of Admiral Kamimura, now on its way to Chemulpo, is expected to return to Yokosuka on the 24th inst. by way of Fusan, Gousan, Hakodate and Awamori.

Very few Southern candidates at the recent extraordinary examination, says the P. & T. Times, have been approved, as great suspicion is entertained of them by the Throne, lest they are connected with insurgents.

Two beachcombers by name Mathews and Rotgard were each sentenced to eight years' imprisonment with hard labour for robbery at Manila. This seems to be a departure on the part of the insular authorities from their usual custom of shipping undesirable to this and other ports.

Under the heading "True Spanish Courtesy," a Manila paper publishes the following telegram:—"Lisbon, July 30.—The American squadron has been received with marked honours." The sub-editor has surely been labouring under a geographical aberration of intellect.

Beri-beri has broken out in the Siam Navy, and many of the men are down with it. There is also something of an epidemic of this disease among the students in the Royal Military College, where, says the Bangkok Times, one would hardly expect to find it, if it is really due to the food eaten.

The crusade against the mosquitoes in New Jersey, U.S., is assuming large proportions. The State officials have taken the matter up and are siding in the fight. Recent exchanges state that crude petroleum oil is being used with great success. It is distributed on the surface of ponds and marshes with special apparatus and sprayed on the swamp lands, and small shrubbery.

A correspondent of a home paper understands that the Washington Administration is in communication with the United States representatives in Peking regarding the question of providing defenses for the Legation there, which occupies an exposed position, and if taken by a Chinese mob it would be of great disadvantage to the defenses of the other Legations. President Roosevelt thinks the arming of the Legations can do no harm, but Mr. Hay regards such a step as detrimental to the sovereignty of a friendly nation. Plans have been prepared, however, and if matters in Peking begin to take an ominous appearance it would be but a matter of days for guns to be transported from the U.S. Squadron in China to the capital.

The North-German Gazette, commenting on statements which have been published in England with regard to the defenses of the Legations at Peking, says that, in view of the unfavourable economic condition of several provinces in China, it would not be surprising if local disturbances broke out. The reports, however, that the Legations are threatened to which the English Press has given currency are incorrect. It may be pointed out, says the Times Berlin correspondent, that the most alarming report which has yet appeared is contained in an extract from the Russian Government organ at Blagovestchensk, which was published by the Cologne Gazette and republished as a quotation from the Russian organ by the North-German Gazette itself.

The home papers remark that the Japanese Squadron under Admiral Kawamura seems to have been a revelation to the Australians, showing them that the Japanese might be an alien nation, but one with which it would be better to be on terms of friendship than of enmity. Nothing could be more perfect than the discipline observed on each of the vessels, which could not have been excelled in those of the Imperial Navy. It is, perhaps, remarkable that although the Australian people generally have displayed the utmost cordiality towards their visitors, the various labour organisations have contemptuously stood aloof. Not a single labour representative has had a good word to say for either officers or men, and it is an open secret that they resent any expenditure of public money in preparing the welcome for the naval representatives of a friendly Power.

A China correspondent of the Outlook writes as follows:—"I look upon the Japanese Intelligence Department as the best in the world, and it is certainly run on the most economical lines. Russia spends money like water and knows all worth recording, while our people spend hardly one penny either in the Army or Navy Intelligence Department or Foreign Office. I know an officer in our Navy out here who speaks and writes Russian almost as well as an educated Russian and is a persona grata with the Muscovites, and yet our Whitehall people have never offered him a good appointment. Such a man should be given a good salary and a large fund to draw on and be let loose. Already he has possessed himself of much information, and as far as I can see is the only well-informed man on Russian naval matters out here."

THE "PEMBROKESHIRE" IN DOCK.

Repairing gangs are already busy on the Pembroke, which has been docked in the Hongkong establishment, and was inspected yesterday afternoon by several of the Dock Company's directors. When one looks at the steamer and notes the extraordinary damage she has suffered, one wonders how she ever escaped going to the bottom of the sea. Beginning at about the water-line, her stem is bent and twisted as though it were of tin, and for a distance of thirty feet at least the keel plates have suffered to an even more remarkable extent. In the forehold the iron bottom of the ship has been forced up into the form of a ridge, and in the hold adjoining great rents have been torn, though these are not so large as in the forehold, where the greatest damage has been done. An emergency gang was despatched to Shanghai by the local Dock Company, and they patched up the steamer for the passage down to Hongkong, which must have been an anxious one for those on board, considering the state of the vessel. A wooden cofferdam or deck was built in No. 1 hold, and in No. 2 hold cement and sand were used to effect the temporary repairs, which included the covering of the holes in the ship's bottom from the outside by means of heavy planks securely fastened to the plates. The work was excellently performed, and reflects great credit on those responsible for its execution.

COTTON-GROWING IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Prof. W. C. Welborn, Assistant Chief of the Bureau of Agriculture, and Mr. J. A. Charlesworth, representing Andrews and Co., cotton manufacturers of Manila, are investigating the cotton-raising industries in Northern Luzon with an idea of attempting its promotion and introduction in those localities peculiarly adapted to its successful growth. The greater share of the raw cotton which Mr. Charlesworth uses comes from New Orleans, by way of England, but the largest native product is obtained from the vicinity of Loag. The tree cotton is useful only for a limited number of purposes on account of its short fibre, but it is thought that with proper encouragement and cultivation the cotton industry may become a most valuable one in the Philippines. Prof. Welborn having had practical experience in the culture of cotton in his Mississippi home is especially fitted to promote the successful growing and introduction of this produce in the Philippines.—Manila Times

CORRESPONDENCE.

LEADING OR FOLLOWING?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS."

Hongkong, 11th August.

SIR,—I notice that the Attorney-General in moving in the Legislative Council the second reading of the Bill entitled "An Ordinance to set apart a holiday to be known as Victoria Day," etc., informed the Council that Hongkong is in this matter is "following the example of, if not setting the example to, the rest of the Empire." One can imagine the Attorney-General sitting down and defying contradiction of the statement!

But, perhaps, some of your readers may be interested to know exactly what Hongkong's position is in the matter.

May 24th is set apart as a public holiday under the designation of "Victoria Day" in the Dominion of Canada, Cape Colony, Natal, Orange River Colony, Transvaal, South Australia, Windward Islands, Leeward Islands, Barbados and other parts of the Empire, so that Hongkong is following rather than setting the example.—Yours, etc.,

IMPERIALIST.

"FOR TRICKS THAT ARE VAIN."

The opium petitions which were sent into the Philippines Commission and supposed to have represented 20,000 Chinese have been thoroughly gone over by interpreters with the following results, says the Manila Times:—"The total names in Chinese characters were 2,091 and in script 680, making in all 2,771 names. The first petition was sent to Washington but petition Number 2 showed nearly all the signatures in the same hand writing with fictitious names meaning 'grandmother,' 'to write,' 'to steal,' 'on credit,' etc. Petition number 3 contains 232 stamps and signatures, of which ten are fictitious and 123 have been written by the same hand. There also appears in this petition 31 stamps which have been used several times. One signature and stamp of an opium-dealer appears on nearly every page in this petition as well as in others. Fictitious names such as 'chief,' 'pig,' 'your mind is readable from your eyes,' 'Easter jade head' and 'Yellow pumpkin,' appear in all the petitions."

PEKING A TREATY PORT.

Mr. Conger, says the P. & T. Times, is reported to be again pressing the question of Peking being opened as a treaty port, and he appears to have put forward arguments which suggest to the Chinese Government a possible source of safety in so doing, in the event of a Russo-Japanese war. Foreign opinion is very much divided on the question, which seems a large one, as to whether Peking would be any safer against Russian aggression than it is now. A diet of treaty ports so far as we can judge, agrees with Russia's digestion; but a seat of Government with a diplomatic body thrown in is a trifle tougher to masticate, and her powers of assimilation have not as yet been displayed in this direction. If Peking is opened there would be the usual allotments of Settlements, including a Russian one, by virtue of conquest or the "ten-trade"; the Court would shift and with it the high officials whom we might otherwise exercise some beneficial influence over, and we should simply be left with more bottomless wells into which to cast honest capital, and be not one whit nearer stemming the Northern invasion, or demonstrating the value of North China's trade. At least this is how it appears to us, the Times says; but we should be very glad to hear other opinions on the subject.

A PHILIPPINES NOTABILITY.

Major Simeon Villa, formerly Aguinaldo's chief of staff, was arrested last week in Manila for participation in the murder of Lieutenant Salvador Pereira, of the Spanish Insular Army, who met his death in the Pueblo of Haguan, Isabela Province, Cagayan Valley, late in September, 1898. Simeon Villa once shared with Mabini the honour of being the "brains of the insurrection." Villa remained with Aguinaldo until the Fuston episode in the mountains up North and was brought to Manila, a prisoner of war. Subsequently he was released and escaped to Japan, just in time to avoid arrest for the crime with which he is now stands charged. Among the insurgent veterans he is known as Aguinaldo's "historian" because of having published a journal of Aguinaldo's flight from the American forces after the breaking up of organised resistance to American arms. Japan held Villa for nearly two years. During this time he made several visits to Hongkong and was intimate with the insurgent junta there. He devoted the greater part of his exile to the study of medicine, and, having completed several courses in Japanese universities, he decided to return to Manila. His decision was doubtless influenced by the fact that he thought the President's Amnesty Proclamation would absolve him from responsibility for his crime. He had heard of the release of the two Gasmans, his accomplices in the foul deed, by the Insular Supreme Court, under the amnesty proclamation. Their crime, and his, was proved to be one of the most heinous murders that has ever blackened the history of these Islands.—Cablenews

NON-EFFICIENT VOLUNTEER

HUMMONKED AT POLICE COURT.

At the Police Court yesterday morning, before Mr. J. H. Kemp (Acting Police Magistrate), Aaron Ellis, a gunner in the Hongkong Volunteer Corps, was summoned by Major Chapman, Acting Commandant of the Corps, to show cause why he should not make good to the Corps a loss of $25 which it had sustained through his failure to obtain an efficiency certificate for the drill season 1902-3. Mr. H. Hursthouse, solicitor (Messrs. Donnys & Bowley), appeared for the complainant; the defendant was unrepresented.

Mr. Hursthouse explained to his Worship that the prosecution was not a criminal one; its object was simply to recover the amount of the Government grant, which the Volunteer Corps had lost through the non-efficiency of the defendant during the past drill season.

Major Chapman, Acting Commandant of the Corps, was called. He said the defendant was a member of the Corps at the present time. He had not obtained a certificate of efficiency for the drill season 1902-3, and in consequence of his failure to obtain such certificate the Corps had suffered loss to the extent of $25. That sum represented a grant paid by Government for each efficient Volunteer, and the defendant's name was amongst those on account of whose inefficiency the grant had not been paid. Witness wrote to the defendant on 17th July last, after having been visited by the defendant in person, and received in reply the letter put in as an exhibit, which stated that the defendant, near the close of the drill season, had notified his intention to resign on account of his inability, through pressure of work, to complete the required number of drills. The letter also stated that Major Pritchard, Commandant of the Corps, to whom the defendant's application for permission to resign was made, asked the defendant to stay on until the general inspection, in the event of his attending which his shortage in drills would be made all right. The defendant attended the general inspection, and subsequently was asked to explain why he had not completed the stipulated number of drills. No reply was received to that communication, nor to another which followed, and eventually a board of officers was constituted to enquire into cases of non-efficiency, included amongst which was that of the defendant. Continuing, Major Chapman deposed that a non-efficient's resignation would not be accepted just before the close of the drill season except on very good grounds. Volunteers could always ascertain the number of drills they had put in by consulting the tables exhibited at Headquarters every month.

Sergeant-Major Power was the next witness. He said he had the custody of the various books and records of the Volunteer Corps, and produced forms of enrolment, including that signed by the defendant, who thus bound himself over to make good whatever loss the Corps suffered by reason of his non-efficiency. The defendant had six drills in, and the total number he was required to put in was 30. On 15th April last the defendant was asked to pay a non-efficient's fine, and a subsequent communication was sent on 28th May; no reply was received to either of them.

This was all the evidence for the prosecution, and the defendant made a statement to the effect that about a month before the drill season closed he called on Major Pritchard to explain why he had not been able to put in his drills and to ask permission to resign. Major Pritchard told him that he did not want any resignations before the general inspection took place, and said that if the defendant attended that parade it would be all right. "That was my only reason," the defendant concluded, "for not putting in the drills; I thought I would be all right. Major Pritchard is not in the Colony, and won't be back for ten days yet."

His Worship—Do you want an adjournment? Defendant—Yes, I should like one until Major Pritchard returns. His Worship—I don't see that all this is quite an answer to the charge. If you are liable to pay a fine for not putting in a certain number of drills, I don't see that Major Pritchard has power to give you the assurance that you say he gave.

Defendant—If Major Pritchard had not resumed me, I should have made an endeavour to put in my drills. His Worship—Do you object to an adjournment, Mr. Hurs house?

Mr. Hurs house—I object to any adjournment, your Worship, particularly if the defendant does not want to go into the witness-box and answer to what he has said. I can't cross-examine unless he does.

Defendant—Yes, I want to answer to what I have said? Oh, I'll do that, certainly. Defendant then went into the witness-box and was sworn in the Jewish fashion, but on oath. He said he was an assistant with Houghton & Co., tailors and cut-m. He met Major Pritchard fully a month before the drill season closed, and asked him about his resignation, which he had tendered a week before on account of his inability to put in his drills by reason of pressure of work, and as, further, he had not a sufficient number of drills in to entitle him to an efficiency certificate. Major Pritchard said he did not want to accept the resignation before the general parade, and that if the defendant attended that parade it would be all right. The defendant therefore attended the parade in question.

His Worship—Why were you not able to put in your drills?—I had too much work on hand. Cross-examined—Defendant would swear that he did not receive any letter from Major Pritchard on or about 15th April or 25th May; about that time he received letters from Major Chapman. When he did eventually hear from Major Pritchard he called on him and explained matters. It was not the case that Major Pritchard told the defendant he would not be allowed to resign before the general inspection. Expresses and envelopes from the Volunteer Corps came very irregularly, and sometimes, defendant said, he did not receive them at all.

Mr. Hurs house having addressed the Court in support of the claim, His Worship ordered the defendant to pay to the Volunteer Corps the sum of $25 within seven days from the date of the order, failing which payment a distress warrant would be issued and distraint made.

THE LAST OF A CANTON PLOT.

From an extremely belated copy of the N. C. Daily News of the 25th ult., which only reached us yesterday, we take the following:—

As will be remembered a conspiracy of Triad revolutionists to blow up with gunpowder all the Chinese and Manchu officials of Canton on last China New Year Day was frustrated only in the nick of time through information furnished by the Hongkong Government. Seven of the conspirators, if our memory serves us rightly, were beheaded in succession after a series of trials and tortures lasting a couple of months, while a number of accessories before, as well as after, the fact, but who did not actually participate in the attempt and were therefore, according to Chinese law, worthy of lighter sentences, have been languishing in the Namhoi and Punyu district gaols of Canton up to very recently, waiting for their sentences. A Canton despatch now states that with his characteristic energy and promptitude H.E. Viceroy T'ien shortly after his arrival at Canton and taking over of office instructed the Magistrate of Namhoi and Punyu to send up to him a list of the names of these conspirators who were still awaiting sentence with the degree of complicity of each clearly set down. This being done H.E. promptly wrote out after each name the man's sentence with instructions to have them carried out without delay. The result was that one man, who declared that he knew of the conspiracy but was too timid to join, was sentenced to ten years' close imprisonment; two men who declared that they did not know of the conspiracy but associated with the conspirators, were sentenced to seven years' close imprisonment; one man, a nephew of the chief conspirator, was sentenced to five years' imprisonment, while five others who denied any knowledge of the conspiracy but were caught in company with the conspirators, were deported to their native towns with liberty to obtain release by giving bondsmen to guarantee their future good behaviour. Thus closes the last chapter of the China New Year conspiracy of 1901.

THE FRENCH YANGTZE LINE.

The Moniteur de la Flotte gives the following details concerning the development of French interests on the Yangtze, a region in which the French flag has not hitherto been prominent. It states that the French merchants at Shanghai, M. M. Racine and Ackermann, have just established, under the title of "Compagnie Asia-Lique de Navigation," a service of steamers flying the French flag, which will navigate the waters of the Yangtze between Shanghai and Hankow. The capital of the new line is partly French and partly Chinese. This fact is looked upon as likely to favour the development of the line, as Chinamen will be more inclined naturally to send their freight on board steamers in which they are interested. Two steamers have just been ordered for the new line at the arsenal at Foochow which is under the management of a Frenchman, M. Doyère, who has designed the vessels. Each vessel will be 286 ft. in length, 43 ft. in beam, draught, 11 ft., and carrying a cargo of 1,200 tons. Twelve decks, 800 coals can be carried; while a second twelve-deck will be fitted with 60 cabins, each of two berths and with two saloons for the first and second-class Chinese passengers. There is a third deck for Europeans. With a cargo of 1,200 tons, the speed is to be 15 knots. The paper welcomes the order given for these two steamers to be built in a Chinese shipbuilding yard, which is managed by a Frenchman, as the latter is bound to order the necessary material from French manufacturers. At the same time the Moniteur de la Flotte says that the success of the Huai-miao mission into the upper reaches of the Yangtze will assist also in extending French influence into the heart of China by means of the great waterway; but this can take place only on one condition, and that is French diplomacy must show a little more sequence in its ideas than has been the case hitherto. French diplomacy is continually making great efforts to undertake works which it declares are useless six months later, and therefore it ought to abandon such disastrous methods, and learn how to carry on such work as it may have begun. The Government authorities are called upon to foster to the utmost the work of M. Doyère at Foochow, and also that of M. Houet in the Upper Yangtze, as, unless this phase of French initiative in China is encouraged properly by the Government, the activity of M. Racine and Ackermann, and of other Frenchmen, would be paralysed.

THE PHILIPPINES OPIUM COMMISSION.

The Civil Governor of the Philippines has named the members of the committee who will investigate the opium traffic in foreign countries and report the result to the Commission. Those chosen are Major Carter, of the Board of Health, Doctor Albert, president of the Partido Federal, and Bishop Brent, of the Protestant Episcopal Church. The compensation of the members while they are on the trip has been raised from $250 to $400 (gold) per month. Of course this does not apply to Major Carter, as he will receive his regular salary during his absence from the islands. The committee will immediately leave for Japan, Formosa, Upper Burma, Hongkong, and Singapore, and study the traffic in each of these places and at the conclusion of four months will return again to Manila and submit a report to the Commission. This report will probably be the foundation of the final action of the government on the opium question.

THE PHILIPPINES OPIUM COMMISSION.

Poet: "Tell me frankly what are your objections to my poetry. Perhaps I can remedy the trouble." Editor (blandly): "Perhaps you can—perhaps you can. Well, my main objection is that it keeps coming. Stop that and I'll waive the others."

PREFERENTIAL TARIFFS.

BRITAIN AND GERMANY.

London, 14th July.

Speaking in the House of Lords on the 15th ultimo, Lord Lansdowne, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, stated that Germany, in the course of negotiations which were still proceeding, had plainly intimated that if the other British colonies followed Canada's example and imposed a surtax upon German goods, the motherland would probably lose the most favoured-nation treatment. A Blue-book dealing with the negotiations referred to by Lord Lansdowne has now been issued, and the correspondence, which extends from May, 1897, to July 8, 1903, elucidates Lord Lansdowne's statement.

Owing to the South African colonies going into line with Canada, Baron Von Richthofen, German Minister for Foreign Affairs, feared that if the Australian colonies did likewise the conclusion of a new treaty with Great Britain upon the basis of most favoured-nation treatment would be endangered.

Lord Lansdowne replied that if Germany persisted in her attitude a very wide and serious issue would be inevitable, affecting the fiscal relations of both Empires.

Baron Von Richthofen thereafter expressed his readiness to exchange ideas regarding the best methods of obviating present differences. He invited Great Britain to make suitable proposals.

To that statement, Lord Lansdowne replied that Great Britain would certainly be ready to approach the discussion in a most considerate spirit. Lord Lansdowne further showed Germany that it would be illegal, in fact impossible to retaliate upon Great Britain for the acts of her colonies if the colonies were simultaneously considered fiscally autonomous and independent.

Commenting upon the Blue-book, the Times states that Germany, relying upon our inability to retaliate, threatened to interfere with the Empire's internal affairs, and the German change of front coincided with recent significant events in Great Britain.

London, 17th July.

Commenting upon the correspondence which has passed between Lord Lansdowne, the British Foreign Minister, and Baron von Richthofen, the German Minister for Foreign Affairs, relative to commercial relations, and published in the recent Blue-book, several of the Berlin newspapers blame Baron von Richthofen for unbecomingly Great Britain. The organ of Herr Eugen Richter, the leader of the German Liberal party, considers it an unfortunate fauz-pas, bringing grief only to Mr. Chamberlain's mill, and calculated to affect seriously Germany's enormously preponderating exports to Great Britain. The Deutsche Tageszeitung says that the correspondence is extremely awkward, as it shows that Germany abandoned retaliation against Canada by practically asking Great Britain to close the discussion.

London, 18th July.

Herr Richter suggests that Germany should conclude special commercial treaties with the British colonies which grant Great Britain preferences. German newspapers emphasize the necessity for keeping Great Britain out of the fiscal quarrel by continuing favoured-nation treatment, in order to induce Great Britain to allow Germany to fight the colonies single-handed, since the colonies would not be able to adhere to preference principles if Great Britain did not make their quarrel hers.

THE DINGWALL TARIFF.

London, 16th July.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie stated recently that the Dingwall discrimination tariff between Canada and the United States would not lead to an Anglo-American union. Commenting on Mr. Carnegie's remark, the leading Republican newspapers declare that the United States will not resent Great Britain's imposing duties on American productions.

SOUTH AFRICA.

THE ANTI-BRITISH MOVEMENT.

London, 15th July.

The Brussels correspondent of the Daily Telegraph states that Messrs. Kruger and Leyds are still directing the anti-British movement among the Boers in South Africa. The Hague correspondent of the Telegraph reports that General Botha will soon arrive in Europe, when he will confer with Messrs. Kruger and Leyds, without visiting London.

London, 17th July.

There is great indignation in Cape Colony and the Transvaal, even among the Dutch, at ex-General Louis Botha's letter. Some extremists advocate the deportation of the Boer leader from South Africa; but the moderates think the exposure of his mis-statements sufficient. Mr. Brink, a Dutch member of the Transvaal Legislative Council, declares that Dutch is more thoroughly taught now than ever.

THE TROOPS.

London, 17th July.

In the House of Commons last night, Mr. Brodick announced the decision of the Committee of Defence to maintain a permanent force of 25,000 men in South Africa, standing outside the linked battalion system. Mr. Brodick admitted that the decision of the committee, of which ex-officio he is a member, had not aroused his personal enthusiasm. Some subsequent speakers attributed the decision to the influence of Mr. Chamberlain.

The additional force, Mr. Brodick explained, would comprise four cavalry regiments, 12 batteries of field artillery, 14 battalions of the line, and four garrison regiments. Mr. Brodick also explained that recruits from England would be sent to South Africa as soon as they had been trained, and that portion of the permanent force of 25,000 men would be always ready to reinforce the army in India in case of emergency. As the increased cost would amount to about £1,500,000 per annum, Mr. Brodick said he hoped that India would contribute portion of the amount.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman deprecated the latter suggestion as ungenerous.

Mr. E. W. Dickett and others hoped that a corresponding reduction in the Home establishment would be arranged at a later stage in the session, with a view of reducing the cost.

The Secretary of State for War also announced that four new quick-firing batteries would be delivered during the month of August.

INTERESTING FIND IN CRETE.

London, 16th July.

The Standard states that the Italian Archaeological Mission in Crete has discovered, near Agiariada, a painted sarcophagus dating from 2,500 years before the birth of Christ. This is the oldest painting that has ever been found in Europe.

THE ANGLo-AMERICAN INCIDENT OFF MOROCCO.

London, 17th July.

It was stated yesterday that an United States warship had seized and hoisted the Stars and Stripes upon a number of islands off the coast of Morocco, which had hitherto been regarded as British. Questioned as to the accuracy of the report, Mr. J. Hay (United States Secretary of State), gave it as his opinion that it referred to the United States' action in taking possession of the islands of Cayuga and Silunga, which had been purchased from Spain. The islands, Mr. Hay explained, belonged to the Philippine group, and no British claim had ever been made to them.

London, 20th July.

Ruter's Agency reports that some time ago the commander of an American warship advised having hoisted the Stars and Stripes upon seven uninhabited islands within the territory controlled by the British North Borneo Company. The official impression is that the commander in question acted under a misapprehension.

RUSSIA, THE U.S., AND MANCHURIA.

London, 17th July.

It has been semi-officially announced at Washington that the United States Secretary of State and Count Cassini arranged a treaty on the 28th ult., under which Russia agrees to the Manchurian ports of Moukden and Tatungkiao being declared open to foreign traders. The Russian Chargé d'Affaires at Peking subsequently renewed the pledge in writing, after which it became the duty of the U. S. Minister at Peking to secure its embodiment in a commercial treaty with China, together with the conditions upon which the reports were declared open. Then the conference of high Russian officials at Port Arthur unified and placed the internal administration of Manchuria upon a workable harmonious basis, rendering it possible to have the ports opened without any undue sacrifice of Russia's interests, and guaranteeing that the opening will be respected.

BRITAIN'S ARTILLERY.

London, 17th July.

In the House of Commons to-day, Lord Stanley, Financial Secretary of the War Office, said he was confident that Great Britain would soon possess infinitely the best artillery in existence.

TAHITI.

The Daily Mail states that nothing is known in Paris as to the alleged transfer of French possessions in the Eastern Pacific to the United States. It is explained that the removal of troops from Tahiti was merely a result of the cyclone which swept over the town of Papeete, and was devoid of political meaning.

[It was recently announced that the French warship Durance had sailed from Tahiti for Noumea on July 5 with the troops from the garrison there, leaving 20 soldiers to guard the military buildings.]

THE KISHINEFF INCIDENT.

London, 18th July.

The Russian Government has intimated to the United States Government that Russia will neither receive nor consider the American petition to the Fair concerning the atrocities at Kishineff. Mr. John Hay announces that this closes the incident.

The police commissaries have been ordered to expel Jewish families seeking refuge in villages in the Kishineff district, on the ground that it is contrary to the law of 1882.

London, 20th July.

The American Press and public do not resent Russia's refusal to receive the Kishineff petition, as they consider that the object for which the petition was intended has been achieved.

London, 20th July.

Owing to difficulties connected with the re-organisation of the Spanish navy, the Premier, Señor Silveira, resigned during the past week. Ku-Lo, Ngan-Chum-olong, Pow-chong, Cheung Chan-Song, Hong-Song and various kinds of Sou-ching under the name of HENG TAI YU-MI and WO SANG 恒泰裕美和生

the said teas differ both in quality and price. The watch Trade Mark of the undersigned has been registered in Hongkong. Several cases of fraudulent imitation of the said Trade Mark have been detected and severe punishment, but it has been found that a said Trade Mark is imitated in Hongkong and Macao and that some cunning persons employ an octagonal watch as a Trade Mark, the Chinese characters of which are different but the English spelling is similar to that on the Trade Mark of the undersigned. The imitation is so cunningly devised that persons may easily be deceived. Merchants should therefore very carefully examine the said watch Trade Mark, the English and Chinese labels, and the colour and favour of the tea. Any one giving information which shall lead to the detection and punishment of any person imitating the Trade Mark of the undersigned will be amply rewarded by the undersigned according to the quantity of tea discovered bearing such fraudulent Trade Mark.

The undersigned has had the Trade Marks YS registered in Hongkong, and for Li-Tai-Pow-chong the Trade Mark HS has been added. Several persons found imitating the said Trade Marks have been prosecuted and punished, but there are still persons exporting tea of inferior quality bearing imitations of our Trade Marks. Merchants should therefore carefully examine the genuine Trade Marks and the colour and favour of the tea to prevent deception. ## A CHRONICLE OF CASTLE BARFIELD AND THE CRIMEA.

DAVID CHRISTIE MURRAY

CHAPTER IX.

The time, half-past four o'clock in the morning; the date, the twentieth of September, eighteen hundred and fifty-four, the place, the southern bank of the River Alma. Present, some thirty thousand stalwart British men, the vast majority of them snoring on a-mounded, and here and there in the grey of the morning a sentry pacing up and down. Facing northward, Polson Jervase's regiment lies far to the right, and to the right of it again, at a distance of some half a mile, the men of Bosquet's command are also sleeping. This a day destined to be famous and terrible in history; but the dawn is cloudless and quiet. Away beyond the slope of the valley, across the grey flow of the river and half-way upon the northern slope, the pacing sentries, or such of them as are sharp-sighted, can perceive what looks like a wrinkle in the hill. It is some three or maybe four miles from the long line of sleepers, and it indicates the outlines of that great Redoubt around which the memories of Englishmen will cling for centuries to come.

Near five o'clock, and a soft warm morning wind blowing under a stainless sky. Gallopers from head-quarters pass here and there with a quiet word, "Wake your men, and make no noise." There is no sound of any bugle call at that revolting, and the men silently arise, sit up and shake themselves, and mostly make their toilet by a simple process of eye-rubbing and the assumption of their head gear. Then the camp fires are lit here and there where a clump of officers gather together over their morning tea and coffee. For thus early in the campaign all the luxuries of home are not abandoned or forgotten. Troop and company orderlies stroll down to the river, bearing buckets, and the rank and file munch their ration of ship's biscuit. And before the simple meal is barely over, the stealthy word passes along the ranks, and a forward march begins, ghost-like in the dawn. Somewhat clumsily manoeuvred by their chiefs, the line, three or four miles in length, dips down towards the river and crowds at a few chosen fording places. Then it spreads out again like an open fan, and marches up the further slope,—the infantry, men, dripping from the arm-pits downwards, and the handful of cavalry on the right of the British flank shining in the rising sun to the horses' shoulders.

Then a pause, and a long pause. Vineyards along the hill and spaces of field and farm, and scattered houses here and there, and on the left the village of Vourkoun, set aflame by the foe for some as yet undiscovered reason. The smoke goes circling up into the pure air and a faint scent of burning is discernible. Still a mile and a half away on either side the great Redoubt, and in front of it there are embos and oblongs which look like masses of great stone, and might pass for such except that now and again they may be seen to move. These are the infantry troops of Russia, with whom our own men are soon to be in deadly conflict. The fields of Europe have heard no sounds of any cannon fired in anger since the last loud sabbath of Waterloo shook down the spoilers of the Continent; but, unseen at this distance, the guns which line that wrinkle of the hill above there, are charged to the throat, and there are resolute men behind them.

The sun rises higher and higher, and the men of the halted army throw themselves to the ground, awaiting a further word from somebody. Solitary gallopers go hither and thither, over the rolling hills. The staff, with waving plumes, goes cantering along the line, and the idea somehow passes through the ranks that Lord Raglan has gone to consult with Monsieur St. Arnaud as to the disposition of the day's battle. There are thousands of youngsters lying there among the vineyard who have never, until this moment, set eyes on their commander. Raglan goes by amidst a dropping fire of cheers, the sleeves of the right arm dangling loose beside him, his bronzed Roman face one cheerful and inspiring smile, and the cunning left hand, with which he has learned to write his despatches, held low down as he controls his charger. And on the far right of the English line, Polson Jervase is standing at his horse's head, chattering with the rest, when on a sudden he discerns a familiar figure. General Boswell is at the Chief's side, and the two are in familiar converse. The young soldier's first battle not yet begun, and Irons's father going by so near and yet so unkindly of him as a mere unit among the waiting thousands. And it is not yet, not even yet, so very certain that we are to give battle this morning, after all. For we have been bedevilled hither and thither with false marches and with false rumours of sailing, and lines of route. Monsieur St. Arnaud has been for camping south of the Balkans, and giving battle to the power of Russia there, and Raglan has been all for the Crimea and the road to Sevastopol. And no man has known what to believe amongst the divided councils of the Allies. The men amongst the vineyards are plucking and sucking the grapes. The sun grows hotter and hotter, and here is so dreary a silence in these waiting hours that the angry neigh of a horse is heard for a mile along the line. Five o'clock when we began to move, and here is high noon, and impatience all on edge, and nothing done. The staff comes cantering back, and another hour goes by in silence; and then from the Highlanders half a mile away on the left of the handful of cavalry there rises a sound of jubilation. And round the camp fires at night, when the fight is over and the English are in possession of the field, the men learn the reason of the cry. St. Colin Campbell has sent round the word that the men are to break their cartridge packets, and lay the cartridges loose in their pockets, and this is the first word of real business. Now at one o'clock, or near it, the notes pass along the line from east to west, and the men are a-foot again, and marching forward two by two against those solid masses of grey human masonry, and that giant upon the hill-side which is by and by to burst like a volcano into flame. There goes the first boom of cannon from the Russian side, and a round shot sends the earth spluttering amidst the staff as it cankers by once more, plumes waving, and opacities and scabbards, and gold lace, and all the trappings of war, as yet unsoiled, glittering in the sunshine.

This is no day for a cavalry man to win honour. Here we sit on the hill-side with a downward slope before us, and an upward slope beyond, and the unmounted men are working their way onward and upward, whilst we are held inactive. And now the war begins in earnest. The tartan fellows are lounging along, half of them with the stem of a grape bunch between their teeth, loading and firing as they go, scarcely a man of them having stood fire before, and walking towards their baptism of death and blood with an astounding cheerfulness, and the long waving broken line converges as if by instinct, and as the historians of the battle tell us, without definite order from any quarter, towards that grim gash on the hill-side, until it grows to be something of a mob, so thickly clustered that the Russian batteries cleave lines through it. It wavers, it pauses, it rushes forward, it takes shelter beneath the forehead of the hill on which the great Redoubt stands, and then declines, a mere swarm of ants to look at from this distance, towards the belching roar and smoke and flame. And on a sudden the batteries are silent, and far and far there goes up a cheer. And then there is silence again, and a long waiting, and the grey massive oblongs and embos of masonry come down on this side and on that, and the watchers in the valley wait in a tense and terrible strain. Where are the reinforcements? Where is the Duke of Cambridge, and the Guards? Hidden away there in a wrinkle of the hill they are waiting for some unknown reason, and the conquerors of the great Redoubt seem doomed. But after awful minutes and minutes, which stretch to hours, the line sweeps up. Raglan's immortal two guns come into play from the knoll on the distant right and the tide of battle is turned again. And all the while we of the cavalry division are maddened with excitement, and consumed by ennui, by turns, wearied with thirst and heat, and waiting in vain for our chance to strike a blow at the enemy. Bored and tired and athirst, the men who have stood for hours at the bridle, throw themselves on the sunburned grass. No chance for us to-day, says one to the other, and the tide of battle, now grown invisible, is rolling noisily here and there, now seeming as if it would vanish altogether into the air, and now as if a flying enemy had suddenly taken heart and were back in swift return. And here is a hill to the west of us, and the hot sun, yet shining clean and bright through whiffs and shreds of scattered smoke, goes down behind it, and the shadow lengthens, and creeps up the brown-green face of the hill to the left. And lo, on a sudden, a sweating galloper on the crest of the hill, with his horse one-lather from launch to bridle, is tearing down with orders. Here is old Stacey in the saddle again, and his hoarse voice is calling. The tired and thirsty souls are alert in an instant, and away go the Heavy Dragoons at a walk until the hill is breached. Then at a trot, a canter, a gallop, a charge. For the masses of the enemy are all huddled in disorderly crowds away there in the pass, and it needs but one decisive blow to smite them into utter rout and scatter them like chaff. Then was an hour when the fate of a great campaign lay in the balance; and because that hour was not chosen England had to pour out her blood and her treasure in one mingled torrent for a year or two. For as the charging regiment was in amongst the fingerings of the retreat, the pursuit was called away. The keener spirits had naturally ridden further, and there was no man there that day who was keener than Polson Jervase. When the bugles rang out the "Retire," he would, had he been in command, have risked a platoon of Nelson, with a glass at the blind eye, and would have failed to recognise the recalling signal. But he was a unit, and private unit at that. And he was already half-enchained amidst the edges of the flying crowd, and actually at their mercy, if any of the fugitives had found so much as a sheep's heart to awake within him.

The British steamer Haitong, from Tamsui, Amoy and Swatow 10th inst., had high sea N.E. gale with heavy cross swell to Amoy. From Amoy to Swatow strong S.W. wind and high head sea. Inche*, in Swatow—Rajabari, Nangang, Tai-shan and Chien-shan.
The British steamer Faunaga, from Chiofo 3rd inst., had moderate to fresh winds as far as Pishan, when heavy squalls commenced to fall and wind increased with heavy sea from the E. and N., ran back to Bullock Harbour for shelter and anchored there from 8 p.m. on Thursday 6th till 11.30 a.m. on Friday 7th, when we weighed anchor and proceeded down coast as far as Fuyan, where we again anchored as it was blowing a fresh southerly gale; we lay in Sishan Bay from 7.30 p.m. on Friday evening till noon on Saturday 8th. Early on Saturday morning between 1 and 4 a.m. the wind increased (still from the South) and the heavy rain squalls equalled in force a strong gale (force 8 to 9). THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY
TRADE MARK
THERAPION
This successful and highly popular remedy, used in the Continental Hospitals of Paris, Rotterdam, Vienna, and others, combines all the desiderata to be sought in a medicine of the kind, and surpasses everything hitherto employed.
THERAPION No. 1 is a remarkably short-time, often a few days only, removes all the morbid organic elements, effectually expelling the cause of which does irreparable harm by laying the foundation of chronic and other serious diseases. It is dysentery, piles, irritation of the lower bowels, cough, tracheitis, asthma, and some of the more trying chronic diseases of the lungs. I will find astonishingly efficacious, affording prompt relief where other well-tried remedies have been powerless.
THERAPION No. 2 is for impurity of the blood, scurfy plaques, spots, blotches, pains and swellings of the joints, secondary symptoms, gonorrhea, rheumatism, and all diseases for which it has been too much a fashion to employ mercury, karsapilla, &c., to the destruction of suffering, health, and ruin of life. This preparation purifies the whole system through the blood, and thoroughly eliminates every poison by matter from the body.
THERAPION No. 3 is for nervous exhaustion, impaired vitality, depleted strength, and all the distressing consequences of early error, excess, residence in hot, unhealthy climates, &c. It possesses surprising power in restoring strength and vigor to the debilitated.
THERAPION is sold by the principal Chemists throughout the world. Price in England 4s. 4d. In ordering, state which of the three numbers is required, and observe also Trade Mark, which is a facsimile of word "THERAPION" (as it appears on the British Government Stamp (in white letters on a red ground) signed by every package by order of His Majesty's High Commissioner, and without which it is a forgery.)
